

MEDICAL EXCELLENCE

Great Health is the Ultimate Luxury

SECOND OPINION SERVICE

What is Second Opinion Consultation?

A second medical opinion consultation usually takes place after your physician makes an initial diagnosis and recommends a treatment plan. After this initial diagnosis, you may wish to relay the existing diagnostic results and information to another medical institution to obtain a complete written and objective analysis of the initial diagnosis. (including, but not limited to, diagnostic advice, pathology report, medical record and all results and diagnostics of the test report).

The cost of this service is US$4000 plus physician fees. There may also be a fee if additional diagnostics are necessary to render an opinion.

Professional Advisory for Severe Illness

Most people, in the event that they themselves or a loved one has been diagnosed with a major illness, are not able to keep calm, and the reaction is usually one of the following two: one is a cross between helplessness and panic, while being in a state of denial; the other is taking on the role of doctor themselves, using the internet, miscellaneous literature, or other various channels of information to take an active participatory role in their own treatment. But both of these reactions, in terms of the management and treatment of diseases, are not ideal solutions, and may therefore unduly delay or entirely miss the "golden period" of treatment.

To help individuals pursue the ultimate high-end luxury health, MEI has opened its network, which includes top medical and research institutions specializing in cancer, cardiovascular, exercise, psychiatry and pediatrician to provide a second medical opinion consultation and professional assistance for our customers, allowing you to have adequate resources and confidence to face the challenges of disease, and to truly take charge of your health in the future.

Great Health is the Ultimate Luxury

Advantages of MEI Second Opinion Consultation

As a personally tailored health management service, MEI is a renowned international health management company. We offer our clients seeking a second medical opinion to experience the advantages of the United States healthcare network, providing the opportunity for case review by top cancer, cardiovascular, exercise, psychiatry, and pediatric specialists, and medical experts from the top medical institutions. Because MEI only collaborates with the world's top physicians and medical institutions, our clients using this service platform will be served by the most experienced medical team will provide you with a thorough analysis and interpretation of your initial diagnosis and confirm your truly optimal treatment plan.

The second medical consultation advantage that MEI will provide is not merely the resources of the leading global medical research and development from the United States but also the follow up services offered after the consultation. Complex medical issues require expert support to obtain optimal outcomes. Upon assessing your condition, MEI will combine a medical team of the most qualified specialist physicians within the required field in the shortest possible time to help you combat your illness.

Great Health is the Ultimate Luxury